

Xanadu buttress, and a suggestion of ethics?

So great to see the continued exploration of sand river, the area that seemingly continues to gift with the hard work of so many, but does it not seem questionable in suggesting that a certain feature would be desecrated by adding bolts to it? Sand river is unquestionably a premier Tasmanian sport climbing crag so if there is a line that can be climbed free by adding bolts to it surely this is a good thing?